EXPERIENCE

With more than 30 years of experience as a manager and executive leader in local government, Jacquie is a perceptive and discerning advisor. She has coached mid-level and senior executive leaders that want to draw upon their most authentic abilities to positively impact their personal lives and organizational productivity and success. As a Certified Executive Coach, Jacquie works with leaders who are the drivers behind organizational innovation, the leaders who are navigating transitions, and those leaders who truly want to lead courageously and make a difference.

Jacquie has extensive and broad-based local government work experience, with specific emphasis in city management and operations, community visioning, strategic policy development and implementation, public finance and budgeting, and economic development/downtown revitalization. Jacquie has served as the City Manager for the City of Centennial, Colorado, Interim City Manager for the City of Miami, Oklahoma, the Director of Finance for the City of Lakewood, Colorado, and most recently the Executive Director for both the Loveland Downtown Development Authority (quasi-governmental) and the Loveland Downtown Partnership (a qualified 501(c)(4)) in Loveland, Colorado.

Jacquie's extensive experience in local government and non-profit environments, helps to create an atmosphere of trust and respect that fosters and facilitates honest communications and provides for effective coaching and successful outcomes. Jacquie works with motivated leaders who are ready to make a difference and are willing to identify changes that are important in their success.

People have a reservoir of talent worth discovering. They just have to be given the opportunity to discover it in themselves."
